

GREG COFFIN, PGA Master Professional

My name is Greg Coffin, P.G.A. of America Master Teaching Professional and Founder of Peak Performance Golf.

I began my instructional career back in 1995 after playing NCAA golf and competing on various mini tours. Since then, my career has allowed me the opportunity to instruct thousands of golfers of all skill levels, age and gender from all over the globe with great success.

After completing a five-year run as Director of Instruction for Ken Venturi Golf Academies I founded Peak Performance Golf back in 2005. Peak Performance Golf specializes in instructing golfers of all ages and skill levels.

In 2010, I added the Peak Performance Golf Junior Academy program. This program has produced numerous Junior golfers move on to play collegiate golf. I have also received Youth Player Development Awards from the PGA for our work with Junior golfers.

I am also a certified golf instructor and junior coach with Titleist Performance Institute and a certified Kvest biomechanics instructor.

I have been fortunate during my career to have worked for some of the best golf instructors in the world, notably Mr. Ken Venturi and Mr. Wally Armstrong. What I have learned from both of these great professionals is that there is not just one way to swing a golf club but instead there are certain parameters that a golf swing must fall within to be effective and efficient.
